Hostile and Malignant Prejudice: Or Why it may be Easier to Hate Your Neighbour

This talk will explore some of the reasons for the persistence of hostile and malignant racial, ethnic, and religious prejudice in our contemporary world in spite of advances in science, the lessons of millennia of violence and bloodshed and the popular opposition to its manifestations.

Cyril Levitt, PhD

Cyril Levitt is a professor, and former chair of the Department of Sociology at McMaster University in Hamilton. He was the Chair of the Committee on Prejudice (Including Anti-Semitism) of the International Psychoanalytical Association, 2009-2013.
